

Reading & Writing

“The ink of the scholar is more holy than the blood of the martyr.”

— القرآن الکریم

The best books... are those that tell you what you know already. The best moments in reading are when you come across something – a thought, a feeling, a way of looking at things – which you had thought special and particular to you. Now here it is, set down by someone else, a person you have never met, someone even who is long dead. And it is as if a hand has come out and taken yours.

If you want to be a writer, you must do two things above all others: read a lot and write a lot. If you write differently from what you speak, If you speak differently from what you think, If you think differently from the way you ought to think, if you act differently from what you speak and so it all proceeds into deepest darkness.
